The Talk and Beyond: Raising Children in a Confused Culture

Parents: We are wading in uncharted waters. The world and its pitfalls today are unlike any other time in history. In whatever decade we grew up, it is a far cry from the noise, the pressures, the confusion, and the temptations of today's world. It is understandable that parents feel alone and confused in parenting, especially with regard to forming children in a healthy approach to truth about human love. Whose advice can I trust? What ideas are sound, trustworthy, and healthy for my child's body, mind, and soul? What is the best advice I can take to help my child grow in love of God, self, and neighbor? In this talk, Mike will guide us through the murky waters of parenting our children in this confused culture, providing us confidence in our strategies, as well as faith in God's Plan.

Michael Moynihan has been the Head of the Upper School at the Heights School in Potomac, MD, for the past 20 years. He has taught and coached boys at the Heights since 1995. Mike has written several books and has spoken widely on parenting. Mike and his wife Angela have eleven children.

Parenting Daughters and Sons: the Unique Role of a Father

What kind of adults do you imagine your children will become? Society has done a great job of blurring the roles of women/men and mothers/fathers. But we each have a distinct contribution in the forming of our children. Strong, virtuous, and faith-filled men and women don't just happen by accident. They are a result of the influence of the unique qualities a mother and a father bring to their children's lives. This talk will explore what daughters and sons need most from their dad to live happy, fulfilled lives.

Janet Quinlan is a Certified Catholic Life Coach through The Life Coach School, and host of the "Finding Joy in Motherhood" podcast. She works with women and couples to find more joy and fulfillment in their marriage and family life, helping them resolve conflict in their marriage and parenting styles in order to realize their goal of a happy family life.

With a B.A. in elementary education from St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Janet has 39 years of elementary education experience in public, private, and homeschool settings.

Her greatest accomplishments are her marriage of 38 years to Michael, raising her 7 children, and welcoming 18 grandchildren and counting!
